

Movie	Year	Review (Generated by ChatGPT)	Grade (Generated by ChatGPT)
Inception	2010	Inception is a mind-bending thriller that keeps you guessing until the very end. Christopher Nolan's direction and the talented ensemble cast deliver a gripping cinematic experience that will leave you in awe.	9
The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 1	2011	Breaking Dawn - Part 1 lacks substance and fails to engage viewers who aren't already fans of the Twilight series. The plot feels dragged out, and the performances and dialogue fall flat.	3
Gravity	2013	Gravity is a visually stunning and gripping space thriller that immerses you in its intense atmosphere. Alfonso Cuarón's direction and Sandra Bullock's powerful performance make it a must-see film.	9.5
The Hangover Part II	2011	The Hangover Part II feels like a lazy and uninspired sequel that relies too heavily on recycled jokes. It fails to capture the freshness and comedic brilliance of the original film.	4
Mad Max: Fury Road	2015	Mad Max: Fury Road is an adrenaline-fueled masterpiece that redefines the action genre. George Miller's direction, the stunning practical effects, and Charlize Theron's fierce portrayal make it an unforgettable cinematic experience.	9
Suicide Squad	2016	Suicide Squad is a disappointing and messy attempt at a superhero ensemble film. Despite a talented cast, the weak plot, inconsistent tone, and underdeveloped characters hinder its potential.	3

The Shape of Water	2017	The Shape of Water is a visually stunning and unconventional love story that celebrates the beauty of differences. Guillermo del Toro's direction and the exceptional performances make it a captivating film.	9
The Emoji Movie	2017	The Emoji Movie is a shallow and uninspired animated film that feels like a blatant marketing ploy. The weak storyline and lack of originality make it an overall forgettable experience.	3
Parasite	2019	Parasite is a masterful and thought-provoking film that explores social class with dark humor and clever storytelling. Bong Joon-ho's direction and the exceptional ensemble cast deliver a truly unforgettable cinematic achievement.	9
Frozen	2013	Frozen is a delightful and enchanting animated film that captivates audiences of all ages. The memorable songs, heartfelt story, and lovable characters make it a modern Disney classic.	10
